Dear Mr. Weisberg --

YES! I want to be on your list for WHITEWASH II . . and right up near the top for one of your autographed copies! I can hardly wait to read it.

Your much appreciated letter arrived the same day I returned home from a week in New York City, AND LET ME TELL YOU THIS! One of the best parts of my sojourn in the big city was the three-hour TV show on WNEW-TV, starring you, Jim Bishop, Mark Lane, Léo Sauvage, et al. It was just great. I watched it with two other people with whom I had talked at length about the Warren Commission Great Snow Job. I'd been reading about . . but it took your program to convince them that "whitewash" is the word! Your aggressiveness and determination not to be interrupted were loudly applauded by us all.

Then I managed to spend some time in Brentano's . . where I unearthed some books on the subject that are not available in this area. And now I'm out campaigning with everyone who will listen to my story that they simply must read whatever is available. I even made up a list of subject books, complete with publisher and price, and marked in the order of my own personal preference. WHITEWASH is first on the list . . as I am sure it is on many others.

It's my understanding that "The Open Mind" has a program about the Commission Report, and that somewhere there's a documentary TV film of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  hours. I hope this is true and that they will be shown on our available channels. The December issue of Esquire did quite a graphic job in outlining the different theories and pointing out the shady parts of the so-called Report.

As for your question about the Bradfords -- since it's in our family archives (unclassified and open to the public of course!) that we're direct line from the original Governor William Bradford of colonial days, and I seem to recall that the 1947-49 Massachusetts Governor was, too, then I guess we are related to Robert Fiske Bradford! But tenuously, probably.

Had I realized that you were still checking the National Archives, and had I not so many real and perhaps imagined responsibilities right here (including the one pictured above!), I'd have been sorely tempted to volunteer my services as a researcher, typist, or errand-girl for your project. Keep up the good fight, Mr. Weisberg - I am confident that you have many, many readers who agree that "whitewash" is the word of the day! And that WHITEWASH II can't get into print soon enough.

Sincerely and enthusiastically,

Anne Bradford
